The rising cost of funds for structured settlement factoring companies has raised many questions from consumers. "We always make sure that our clients compare our rates to rates of other companies. - 1) Always shop around to multiple companies before agreeing to any sale.
- 2) Use Settlement Quotes' discount rate calculator to make sure a fair discount rate is offered.

- 3) Check the Better Business Bureau record of all the companies that may be involved in the transaction.
- 4) Decide 00004000 whether you need to sell the entire annuity or only part of it.
- 5) Consult with an attorney or financial consultant to decide whether selling your future payments is in your best interest.
- 6) Think about how selling your structured settlement could have a negative impact on your future.

"Settlement Quotes is always looking out for the best interest of our clients," said Spelling. All structured settlement factoring transactions need to be court approved in order for an annuitant to sell the rights of their payments.
