Sailing away with Structured Settlements

Sunny

22 November 2012 | Newport Beach, California

As you know living life on a sailboat is not easy. There are rough waters and winds that make things a little choppy when at sea. Well things are no different in real life. Sometimes the high tide protects you but as famous investor Warren Buffett has said when the tide comes in you know who has been swimming naked.

So it;s important to ensure that you are covered and often times receiving a structured settlement can make a world of difference until you realize that you need a large lump sum to pay your bills.

So the question that begs is what to do when times get tough and the sailboat is being dragged down? Thats the million dollar question. Don't be afraid to ask for help and sell off assets when need be. It's important to think about yourself.
