RE: Putting an end to defense-controlled structures is easy. Just hire a plaintiff expert for free.

Dear

Your clients have rights. This letter is a call to action for any practicing attorney who thinks they have to do anything a defense-structured settlement professional tells them. FORGE Consulting acts exclusively as a plaintiff's expert, and if doing a structure makes sense for your client, having a professional agency represent them makes tremendous legal sense.

Here are a few of the benefits of working with FORGE on every settlement, especially if they are minors:

- FORGE has a legal insurance duty to the plaintiff; the defendant's agent does not. You will legally release the defendant's agent upon completion of the case.
- FORGE guarantees a more competitive structure, every time, and will be there professionally should something ever go wrong.
- FORGE provides an affidavit on minors' cases, which eliminates the guesswork for your judicial officers. Our affidavit is part of the Judicial Institute's materials on Wrongful Death and Infant Compromises.

Pursuant to the Medicare Secondary Payer Act, if your client is entitled to Medicare or has applied for Social Security Disability, you may need to demonstrate how you've "considered" Medicare's interest. FORGE will make the Medicare resolution of your case seamless.

If you've ever hesitated engaging a plaintiff's expert, or thought that working with the guy at the mediation is easier and faster, think again. We guarantee our work will be finished in the 21 days provided under CPLR 5003a.

"My friends at Forge are professional, first rate champions of the 7th Amendment and passionate about what they do. I give them my highest recommendation."
